Are you a Good E.G.G. or a Stinker?

My dad's standard joke when getting an echocardiogram (E.K.G.) is asking the nurses if they ever had an E.G.G. before. It's fun to see their medical trained minds try to figure out what abbreviated medical procedure he is referring. His punchline eventually dwindles down to getting them to confess they've indeed had an e-g-g of course. Nearly everyone of course eats eggs, especially in Stuart, Iowa...

In the town of Stuart, Iowa they have the Good Egg Days weekend event complimenting their town slogan right there on the town's sign. In all the directions upon entering the town, it says "Stuart, Iowa, Home of about 1,700 good eggs and a few stinkers." It's a fun way to just welcome people in a good-hearted humbling joke. Most of us try to act good and treat each other kindly aren't we all kinds stinkers? Let's explore tis further with the word E.G.G as an acronym...

E.G.G. ETERNITY

So, using the word E.G.G as a guide. When I think of the letter E, what comes to mind is the word "eternity" synonymous with the afterlife. Think about it, something's going to happen to our souls even if nothing is something and this afterlife will apply to all of us in some way.

Ecclesiastes 3:11 explains that God has placed a sense of eternity in the hearts of man. Where will your soul end up being forever and ever?

Here's one thing I think that is true. No matter what end of the spectrum you may fall under believing is it not true that the same set of rules will apply to everybody? In other words, if you believe in Buddhist things, Buddhist things aren't just going to happen to you.

If you're a Christian, just Christian things are going to happen to you. If you believe in annihilation, you're not just going to be annihilated.

Whatever happens, happens in eternity to all of us. If it's judgment, it's judgment. If it's raining over easy eggs, then it's raining eggs.

You see you can guess the weather right outside a porch door now and you might guess 60 degrees. It might be 58 degrees, but someone else might think it's 70. The weather is going to be what the weather is. It doesn't change for different people's guesses or opinions. So, would you agree whatever happens in the afterlife after you die the same construct will apply to everybody?

Good or evil, God or no God, sin or no sin... you can grasp it will happen to everybody. You don't walk outside the same door and have a different experience for the most part. Farmers in Stuart know it's not snowing for grandma and sunshine for you just because you believe it. It is what it is. The weather is the same for all on the same porch at the same time. All this weather talk is just to get you thinking about the word eternity and ask yourself, do you think that there's an afterlife? That's a good question for good eggs and stinkers.

Have you heard it said that it's pretty much the only humans that understand that they're even going to die. Meaning most animals don't realize that they could be dying. They may understand sometimes when other animals have passed away, but they probably don't understand, comprehend or grasp they too will die someday.

You understand it as sure as death and taxes, someday you will die. That being said it's time to ask... Do you believe there is a God?

E.G.G. ETERNITY GOD

The second letter and egg of course is G for God. The question is this, is there a God or not? It's a simple, yet profound question. Is there a higher power? Is there a cosmic designer, a creator of you, this world, this universe? Is there a God?

Remember the first question in E of E.G.G? Is there an eternity, an afterlife? If there is an eternity, is there a God? The question with that is, if there is a God, is that God the God of the Bible or not? Maybe there's a God out there that's not the God of the Bible and maybe it is the God of the Bible.

If you start picking and choosing things of the Bible, now you're getting into a very minute proportion of the 7 billion people live now in the 7 billion people that have already lived at the 14 billion people. What are the odds of you being exactly right if you're taking and picking and choosing and pruning things in the Bible? You'd likely be better off believing in a God of or not of the bible than you cherry picking and pruning of the bible.

Is there an eternity? Do you believe in God? If so, is He the God of the Bible? And the third question is, if you believe in the God of the Bible, would you accept the grace he gives for to be with Him in eternity?

Search me, God, and know my heart; test me and know my anxious thoughts. See if there is any offensive way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting. - Psalm 139:23,24

E.G.G. ETERNITY GOD GRACE

It's by grace you've been saved through faith, not from any man's works he can boast. Ephesians 2:8,9

There's a God and he offers us grace, which is an undeserved favor. We don't deserve God's goodness. We don't deserve God's great gift of salvation, yet by grace it is given to us because God loves us. (John 3:16)

If you honestly pray for God search your own heart like in Psalm 139:23,24 you're likely to discover you are indeed a stinker with a sin problem. When we inherited that sin problem from Adam and we sin as we've all broken some parts of the 10 commandments.

For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God. (Romans 3:23)

Much like needing the fire department, we need rescuing from the consequences of sin.

For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord. (Romans 6:23) We need to get right with God. To do that requires faith in accepting and depending on God's grace to believe that Jesus Christ is the way, the truth and the life, no man comes to the father except through him. (John 14:6)

While we all try hard to be good egg and we try not to stink up the place, we're all kind of a stinker at times. You know it and so does God. If you believe there is an eternity, there is a God and that God is of the bible, will you now embrace the grace of God and believe in Him for eternity.

Embrace this E.G.G. acronym outline as an invitation to begin believing in God's grace for eternity.
